THE WELLINGTON DIFFICULTY.

Mr. Dunsmuir Interviewed in Reference to the Matter—No Grievance Stated by the Men.

A telegram having been published stating that the miners working for R. Dunsmuir & Son's, Wellington, had made a demand for higher wages for mining coal, and that the owners had closed down all work in consequence, a representative of THE COLONIST called on Mr. Dunsmuir in this city and interviewed him in the matter.

Ques.—Has any demand been made for higher pay?

A.—A small number of miners taking out pillars asked for an increase of ten cents per ton two weeks ago, which we declined to give. I heard no more about it until Wednesday morning, when I received a telegram stating that unless I went up before Monday, the 7th, and settled all grievances, work would cease on that date.

Q.—What are the grievances referred to?

A.—No grievances have so far been stated.

Q.—Did you make any reply to the telegram?

A.—Yes; after considering the fact that I had been subject to a great deal of annoyance during the past few months, I replied that I would shut down the works and all who had a grievance to state would find me at my office in Victoria. Instructions were sent to Mr. Bryden to close down the works, which was done to-day.

Q.—Do you think it is a question of increase in wages?

A.—I do not think so, for all who are practical miners have been making good wages for some time past.

Q.—Have you any idea what their alleged grievances consist of?

A.—I believe that it is the not unusual result of a large body of well-intentioned men being misled by the influence of a handful of professional agitators, who want to take the management of the mines out of my hands, and who have been assisted by a small portion of the local press.

Q.—Have you been expecting any trouble of this nature?

A.—Yes, I have been expecting it for a long time past, and have made arrangements accordingly. I have noticed that there was considerable discontent among the men, and knew that a crisis would arrive sooner or later.

Q.—Have you promised to meet the men on Saturday next, as stated in the telegram from Nanaimo published in an evening paper?

A.—No; I told you before I had sent them word that I could be found at my office in Victoria, and I am yet unaware of any grievance to settle.

Q.—When do you intend to commence work at the mines again?

A.—I have no idea at present. Certainly not for some time to come.

This closed the interview.

The Anarchist Injunction Case.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—The Anarchistic injunction case came up before Judge Farley to-day. Nothing of consequence was done. The city council urged that the master be compelled to recommend or refuse the writ.

Insult to the American Minister.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—No official advices have been received at the state department from Hayti about the reported insult to Mr. Thompson, our minister there, or the arrest of American citizens by the Legitime authorities, and the truth of the published report is discredited by the department officials.

Arctic Ocean Life Station.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—A petition was presented to the senate to-day by Senator Stanford, from the chamber of commerce of San Francisco, calling the attention of Congress to the urgent need of a permanent relief station in the Arctic Ocean. The petition says the whaling fleet fitting out at San Francisco is steadily increasing, and that many hundreds of lives and millions of dollars worth of property are exposed to annual danger in pursuit of whaling in the Arctic. Relief stations supplied with provisions, fuel, medical stores, heavy clothing and life saving apparatus, the petition says, would be a great boon to our Arctic whalemen.

Mail Robbers Sentenced.

An Editor Thrashed.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—A Tribune special from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, says Charles Duxberry, travelling passenger agent for the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern Road, thrashed Gen. Duxberry had carried a horsewhip about for three days, but finding hunt yesterday for the first time, and not having the whip, used his fists most effectively.

Capt. Wallace's Certificate Restored.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—The United States local inspectors to-day returned to Capt. Thos. Wallace his certificate as master of steam vessels, which was revoked shortly after the collision of his steamer, the City of Chester, with the China liner Oceanic.

A Cool Proposition.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The San Domingo newspapers just received confirm the report that an offer was made through the United States Consul H. C. Atwood to the Dominican government of $200,0000 for permission to exhibit the bones of Columbus in the United States four years. The government promptly refused the offer, and the papers express great indignation that Mr. Atwood should have lent his aid to the scheme. They suggest he should be recalled.

Coal Discovery.

CHAMBERLAIN, Dak., Jan. 2.—Great excitement was caused yesterday by the discovery of a large ledge of anthracite coal on the Crow Creek reserve, about three miles north of the city. It was subjected to a rigid test by experts and proved to be of superior quality.

The Strike Ended.

Changes in the Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The sub-committee of the senate finance committee, having in charge the tariff bill, has practically agreed upon a number of important amendments to be offered in the senate before a vote is taken on the bill. The amendments are to be offered in substitution of an agreement reached before the bill was reported to the senate, that after election certain concessions would be made to certain sections of the country. It has been practically agreed to give to sugar producers a bounty equal to a reduction of fifty per cent. in duty, for which the bill provides. This bounty will be one cent a pound on all sugars which are produced in this country. The committee has practically rejected a proposition to admit, free of duty for experimental purposes for a year, machinery used in the manufacture of sugar. The duty on structure iron will probably be reduced from one cent and one mill per pound to eight, or at most, to nine mills per pound. The duty on lumber will probably be reduced to $1.25. These amendments will possibly not be announced formally by the committee until they are proposed in the senate. There will be no division in the Republican ranks, and the tariff bill as amended will pass the senate January 21st.

THE WELLINGTON DIFFICULTY.

The news from the Wellington mines is serious. The miners are evidently ill-advised. The tone which they have adopted towards the company is not that of men who wish to settle amicably any disagreement that had arisen between them and those with whom they do business. To demand Mr. Dunsmuir's presence at Wellington against a certain day, and accompanying that demand with a threat was certainly a poor way to commence negotiations towards a settlement. If the men have grievances, the reasonable way to set about having them redressed would be to make a clear statement of what they wanted couched in moderate and courteous terms. They surely could not expect that Mr. Dunsmuir would hasten to obey their command. He did what was natural. He anticipated them, and closed the works. If the men suffer they will have only to blame themselves and the agitators who have for some time been fomenting discontent among them. We still trust that the men will reconsider their hasty action and take the proper steps to go to work before any more harm is done.

BRAVELY DONE.

As might have been anticipated, Hayti has been compelled to give up the American vessel which its government had seized, and to promise to pay damages to the amount of $350,000, which is many times the worth of the vessel. The trial was exceedingly short and the arguments used were few, but very weighty. They were called "The Yantic" and "The Galena." It does not appear that the officer appointed by the United States Government to settle the case, Admiral Luce, went very deeply into its merits. It can hardly be said, indeed, that he instituted any enquiry at all. The proceedings were exceedingly simple. Early in the morning of Thursday, the 20th of December, Rear Admiral Luce entered the harbor of Port au Prince. He anchored his ship, the Yantic, within a cable's length of the detained vessel, the "Haytian Republic." He ran a hawser from the stern of his ship to the captured blockade runner. While this was being done he sent his gig, containing Commander Heyerman and Flag Lieutenant Meigs, ashore to communicate with the American Minister, Mr. Thomson. These officers, accompanied by the Minister, proceeded to the President's palace and demanded the delivery of the Haytian Republic to the United States naval commander. President Legitime was politely told that if the steamer was not delivered before sunset the United States ships of war would take her by force, and if resistance were offered the Rear Admiral would shell the city. The officers went on to demand the payment of an indemnity of $350,000 to the owners of the ship which the Haytian naval officers were so rash as to capture; and when they had in the most approved diplomatic fashion requested the President of the Republic of Hayti to salute the flag of the Government which had proposed such moderate terms, the mission of the officers was completed. To show the people that he was in earnest, and that if his terms were not complied with, the citizens of Port-au-Prince might look out for squalls, the Admiral sent boats out to the vessels in the harbor telling them to get out of the range of the guns, and the foreign consuls were notified that hostilities might be commenced at any moment. President Legitime and his cabinet, finding that they were not in a position to refuse the modest demands of the United States Admiral, immediately decided to give up the ship with as little delay as possible, and in order to get clear of such unpleasant visitors as these war ships to promise him all that he asked. The Haytian gunboat Dessalines ran the stars and stripes to her fore-mast head and fired a salute of twenty-one guns, which the Galena, according to the rules of national etiquette made and provided, returned in due form. Then the gallant Admiral with his consort and his prize, feeling proudly conscious of having performed his duty, sailed away over the bounding wave. It perhaps would not be high treason just to hint that if Great Britain, or France, or Italy, or Spain or any other nation that has ironclads and disciplined soldiers and rifled cannon at its disposal had captured a blockade runner the United States would have demanded its return in a less peremptory fashion, and would have left the indemnity, if indemnity ought to be paid, to be settled by a tribunal having some claim to be considered impartial. But the sister Republic was black, it was weak, it was torn by internal strife and was in no position to defend its rights, and therefore the United States might make what demands she saw fit and could enforce them, whether they were just or unjust. The United States, compared with Hayti, has a giant's strength and in this instance she used it like a giant. This is the way of the world. There is not, after all, such a difference between the nineteenth century and the third century—between the civilized man and the savage.

THE BOSTON BATTLE.

The last municipal election in Boston is the subject of a good deal of discussion, and the cause of not a little ill-feeling. The issue was, unfortunately, a denominational one. The objection made by the Catholics to a class-book of history used in the public schools, was the immediate cause of the difficulty. The Catholics said that their religion was misrepresented in the book and that it ought not to be used, and it consequently was removed from the list of authorized text-books. This roused the indignation of a number of Protestants, who, whether rightly or wrongly, considered the school system of the State in danger. The contest became one of Protestant against Catholic, and when once the denominational feeling was excited, very little attention was paid to the question on which the issue was raised. "The schools are in danger," was the cry, and the upholders of the secular system came out strongly in its support. The result was the election of a Protestant mayor and of a number of Protestant members of the school board. Although the Protestant ticket was elected, the Catholics are not without representation on the board of trustees. It now consists of 16 Protestants and eight Catholics. A peculiar feature in this election was the prominent part taken in it by the women of both denominations. It is said that no fewer than 19,000 women voted, and although party spirit ran high, every woman voter was treated at the polling booths and on the streets with the utmost courtesy. It is to be hoped that when the excitement subsides the question of the school-books will be decided wisely and justly. In schools supported by taxes paid by the whole community, respect should be paid to the feelings of persons of all denominations. No Protestant would like his child to be compelled to read a book which contained what he considered misrepresentations of the beliefs and practices of his religion, neither would the Catholic parent be satisfied if a book were placed by the public teacher in the hands of his child which, in his estimation, gave a false account of the tenets of his faith, or noticed things which he holds sacred in the language of reproach and disrespect. It would be better to discontinue the teaching of history altogether in public schools than to make its study a matter of contention. The truth is that history, properly so called, is a study for men and women, and not for children. All that can be expected of a young person is to get fixed in his memory a bare outline of the history of the nation to which he belongs and perhaps that of the nations of antiquity. Prominent facts and a few dates are all that he is fit to master. There are in all history so much misrepresentation, so many false views, so much that is mere theory colored by the prejudices and the feelings of the historian, that it is more than most men can do to distinguish the false from the true, the impartial narration of facts from the highly colored account of past events that partake more of the nature of romance than of history, properly so-called. The passion that so many educationists have in these days for making prodigies of boys and girls, of stuffing their memories with matters that their minds are not fitted to digest, is doing young people a vast amount of harm. It is really astonishing to see how many people there are who mistake lesson-learning for education. In this matter of history; for instance, it is quite possible for a clever boy or girl to read half a dozen text books of history half a dozen times over and write any number of examination papers on them into the bargain, and yet be innocent of any real knowledge of history, and of the lessons which history is designed to teach. Five-sixths of the pupils forget nearly all the history they learned in school in two or three years after they have left it, and the other sixth find, to their surprise, that they have to get rid of nearly all their preconceptions before they can begin to study history rationally. The Boston battle of the schools will be beneficial if it leads both parties to estimate the teaching of history in schools at its true value, and if it teaches men of all denominations the much-needed lessons of toleration and moderation.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

THE Toronto Empire celebrates its first anniversary by issuing a magnificent number of twenty pages, containing all the news of the day and much valuable statistical and other information, besides a large quantity of matter, original and selected, interesting to all classes of readers. In reviewing its first year's work, our young and vigorous contemporary says: "The Empire had come to stay, and after a year of such progress as no journal in Canada ever before made, the management is able to announce to those who assisted in its establishment that their confidence has not been misplaced, that its success is not only assured but it stands to-day as the great Canadian daily, practically without a rival amongst the morning papers of the Dominion." The management speak confidently of its prospects. We trust that the hopes and expectations of all who are interested in its prosperity will be more than realized. They have given the Dominion a splendid newspaper and they deserve to succeed.

THE Empire shows that the trade of the Dominion for the year ending the 30th of June, 1888, has been healthy and vigorous. The imports for the year were $110,894,630, and the exports $90,203,000. Compared with the returns of the preceding year the exports show an increase of some $700,000 and there has been a slight falling off in the imports. The aggregate trade of Canada for last year was $201,097,630. The amount of duties collected was $22,209,641. This is a fairly good showing. The exports of the year 1887-88 are classified as follows:

Produce of the mine	$ 4,339,488
Produce of the fisheries	7,871,105
Produce of the forest	22,880,291
Animals and their products	25,620,360
Agricultural products	20,825,435
Manufactures	4,616,953
Miscellaneous articles	897,503

The Difference.

You go upon the board of trade,
Where margin merchants meet,
And take some little options
On January wheat;
You watch the little ticker,
Till the hands swing round the ring,
Then you find your little boodle
Has gone a-glimmering.
That's business.

You go into a faro bank
And buy a stack of chips,
And watch the cards come from the box
Which the dealer deftly flips;
When your head is dull and aching,
At the breaking of the day,
You see that fickle fortune
Has gone the other way.
That's gambling.

Cincinnati Telegram.

To Drown His Sorrow.

A dilapidated stranger called on an Austin philanthropist and revealed a tale of woe, want, misery and dejection. At the conclusion, he said:

"Would you think me at all lacking in philosophy if I should drown my sorrow in the flowing bowl?"

The Austin philanthropist looked at him a few moments, and then said hurriedly:

"Come, let's go take a drink."

The stranger quickly surrounded the contents of a full glass of whisky. Then he looked appealingly at the philanthropist and observed:

"One doesn't usually affect me."

"Well, fill up another; I've had enough," said the benevolent citizen, at the same time starting toward the door.

"Hold on," said the sorrowful man, "Hold on. Where are you going?"

"Home."

"Didn't you bring me down to drown my sorrow?"

"Yes."

"Well, of course you know a man can't drown unless he goes down three times. "Say, you fill 'em up again."

Anecdote of Darwin.

The following, said to be an authentic anecdote of Charles Darwin, is going the round of the American papers. It refers to his old age—the period when he was bringing out his books on the habits of plants.

His health was poor; and an old family servant — a woman — overhearing his daughter express some anxiety about his condition, sought to reassure her by saying:

"Hi believe master 'd be hall right, madam, hif 'e only 'ad somethin' to hoccupy 'is mind; sometimes 'e stands in the conservatory from mornin' till night —just a-lookin' at the flowers. Hif 'e only had somethin' to do, 'e 'd be hever so much better, hi'm sure."

The spinner of this story says, "No one enjoyed the joke more than the great naturalist himself."

SHARP.

A celebrated attorney once came into court, after having lunched too freely, when the judge said to him,—

"Sir, I am sorry to see you in a situation which is a disgrace to yourself and family, to the court, and to the profession to which you belong!"

This remark of the learned judge elicited the following colloquy:—

"Did your honor speak to me?"

"I did, sir; I said that, in my opinion, you disgrace yourself and family, the court and the profession, by your course of conduct."

"May i-i-it please your honor, I have been an attorney i-i-in this c-court for fi-f-teen years; and permit me to say, your honor, that this is the very first correct opinion I ever know you to g-give!"

A MEAN TRICK.

"Never heard of any think so contemptibly mean in all my life—never!" he said, as he brought his right hand down upon his left.

"What was it?"

"Why, I bet $20 with a man on one of the races, and we put the money in the hands of a stakeholder. I won it."

"Well?"

"Well, a constable stood right there and attached the whole $40 for a debt of five years old!"

"No!"

"He positively did, and he offered to mop the ground with me to boot! It is just such work as this that has brought horse-rasing into disrepute, and which keeps honest people away from the tracks!"

FEMININE INTUITION.

Omaha Youth—(After a long absence) —Who is that pretty girl?

Sister—Clara DeVere. Isn't she lovely; she thinks you are handsome.

"Eh?"

"But she wonders where you got that hat."

"What?"

"It is out of style here, and she can't understand why a man who wears such well-fitting clothes, the latest style, too, should have on such clod-hopper boots."

"Great Cæsar, Sis, how do you know all that?"

"I saw her look at you as she passed!"

HE THOUGHT HE HAD HIM.

Pat made a bet of a dollar with Mike that he could carry a hod full of bricks up three ladders to the top of a building, with Mike sitting on the hod.

The ladders were on the outside of the building. On the third ladder Pat made a misstep, but caught himself in time to save Mike falling forty feet to the stone sidewalk.

Arriving at the top, Pat said: "Begorra, I've wan the dollure."

"Yis," replied Mike, "but whin ye shlipped I thought I had ye."

THE ONE SHE WANTED.

"How much for this melon?" she asked at the market yesterday, as she indicated her choice.

"That melon, madam, is a green one."

"But how much?"

"You wouldn't want it at all, madam, as it would disappoint you."

"But I do want it, sir, and here's a dime for it."

"Ah! how dull I am to-day, to be sure!" sighed the man, as he looked after her. "She keeps a boarding-house, of course."

A MILITARY TROUBLE.

Mrs. Rogue: What does Harry say about his school? Does the dear boy like the military discipline?

Mrs. Pogue: Oh, dear, no; they put him throuhg all sorts of drills and manœuvres.

Mrs. Rogue: And how is his health?

Mrs. Pogue: Not very good, I imagine; he writes that he is troubled with the right shoulder shift.

The endorsement of German Syrup is unparalleled. We will publish 1000 testimonials received during the last six months. Read them. May save your life.

BURLINGHAM, N. Y., May 31, '86.

G. G. GREEN, Dear Sir:—I am frequently troubled with severe colds, and the only remedy that will relieve me of them is your Boschee's German Syrup. I have used it for more than twelve years. It is a constant household companion with me. Our merchant here procured it first at my solicitation, and says he has sold a great many bottles. It is a very popular remedy in this section. Every person who has used it speaks in the highest terms of its merits. I do not know of a single case it has not cured. I first used it in Vermont, where I lived before coming here. I advise everyone to use it, as it is certainly the best cough medicine I have ever known. I have tried nearly all of them at different times.

Yours respectfully, MOSES GRAY,
Proprietor Grist Mill.

Aristocratic Surnames.

Phonographers complain that scarcely one English word in a thousand is spelt correctly—that is, all its letters are not sounded precisely as they are in the alphabet. And such criticism is perfectly just, though from the force of habit, we seldom notice the faulty orthography of common words. But if we meet proper names, of persons or places, their eccentric spelling is more observable, and sometimes even puzzling. Highly educated persons often hesitate in pronouncing a proper name which they see for the first time. This remark especially applies to some aristocratic surnames, as will be seen by the introduction of the subjoined, with their recognized pronunciation:—

Clanranald must be sounded as if written Clanronald. Derby, in speaking either of the peer, the town, or the race, should always be called Darby. Dillwyn is pronounced Dillon, with the accent on the first syllable. In Blyth the th is dropped, and the word becomes Bly. Lyveden is pronounced as Livden, and Pepys as Pepis, with the accent on the first syllable. In Monson and Ponsonby the first o becomes short u, and they are called Munson, Punsonby. In Blount the o is silent, and the word is spoken as Blunt. Brougham, whether referring to the late illustrious statesman or the vehicle named after him, should not be pronounced as two syllables—Brawham or Brooham—but as one—Broom. Colquhaun, Duchesny, Marjoribanks, and Cholmondely—four formidable names to the unitiated—must be called Cahoon, Dukarn, Marshbanks, and Chumley. Cholmeley is also called Chumlay. Mainwaring and M'Leod must be pronounced Mannering and Macloud.

The final x in Molyneux and Vaux is sounded, but the final x in Devereux and Des Vaux is mute. In Ker the e becomes short a, and the word is called Kar; it would be awfully bad form to pronounce it Cur! In Waldegrave the de is dropped, and it becomes Walgrave, with the accent on the first syllable. Berkeley, whether referring to the person or place, should be pronounced Barkley. Buchan is called Bukan; Beauclerk, or Beauclark, is Beauclare, with the accent on the first syllable; and Beauvoir as Beevor. Wemyss is pronounced as Weems, and Willoughby D'Ereseby as Willowby D'Eresby; St. John must be Sinjin as a surname or Christian name; when applied to a locality or a building, it is pronounced as spelt, Saint John. Montgomery, or Montgomerie, is pronounced Mungumery, with the accent on the second syllable. In Elgin g takes the hard sound it has in give; in Gilford and Giffard it takes the soft sound as in gin—as it also does in Nigel. In Conygham the o becomes short u, and the name is called Cunningham. In Johnstone the t is silent. Strachan should be called Strawn; Heathcote, Hethcut; and Hertford, Hartford.

The av is dropped in Abergavenny, which is called Abergenny; and the n in Penrith, which is called Perrith. Beauchamp must be pronounced Beecham; Bourne, Burn; and Bourke, Burk. Gower, as a street, is pronounced as it is written, but, as a surname, it becomes Gor. Eyre is called Air; and Du Plat is Du Plah. Jervis should be pronounced Jarvis; Knollys as if written Knowls; Menzies as if written Mynjes; and Macnamara must be pronounced Macnamarah, with the accent on third syllable. Sandys should be spoken as one syllable—Sands; St. Clark is also one word—Sinclair; and St. Leger is called Selleger. Vaughn is spoken as one syllable—Vawn; and Villebois is Vealbwoh. Villiers is called Villers, with the accent on the first syllable; Trywhit is called Tirritt; and Tollemache is pronounced Tollmash, with no accent on either syllable. The pronunciation of a dead Conservative Premier's title is Beckons'eld; Bethune should be spoken as Beeton, and Milnes as Mills. Charteris, by those moving in what Jeemes calls the "Hupper Suckles," is pronounced Charters, and Glamis is called Glams. Geoghegan is always spoken as Gagan, and Ruthven is pronounced Riven.

It will be observed that most of the above names are much abbreviated in their pronunciation, as recognized by "society"—a fact which forms one of the many protests against the cumbrous nature of English orthography.

The "Gall Hook."

"Place this on the 'gall' hook, George?"

"What kind of a hook?" I asked, as I overheard one of our theatrical managers give the above direction.

"Why, the 'gall' hook. You, a newspaper man, ought to know what the 'gal' hook is," remarked the manager.

Although I am well aware what "gall" is, I had to confess ignorance as to what a "gall" hook was.

"Well then, listen. You see that hook. That is the 'gall' hook. When a man sends us a request asking us for the earth, or a portion of the hemisphere, without giving any reason why he should make the request, and more so, why we should comply with his wishes, we call that a 'gall' request, and all such petitions go on that hook, which has been christened the 'gall' hook, and there it remains till the end of the season, when the hook is cleared for new 'gall.'"—[Republic.

Couldn't Bother With a Drummer.

Recently I was awaiting the convenience of one of these "aristocrats" whose store is in a small inland town in the state. While I was patiently putting in my time on a convenient chair a gentleman, carrying two grips similar to those used by drummers, entered with a business-like air, and putting his baggage upon the floor began to make a minute inspection of the contents of the showcases. The autocrat was arranging his window, and now and then casting an interested glance into a dressmaker's work room opposite. He paid no attention to the new arrival, supposing him, as he afterward tearfully remarked, to be "only a drummer." The stranger glanced at him several times, and was plainly growing impatient. Finally he evidently decided that he had waited long enough, and with a muttered exclamation that he couldn't buy anything if he wasn't shown anything, he seized his grips and vanished through the door before the astonished jeweler could recover his scattered senses.

They were still more widely scattered a few days afterward when he learned that his competitor, a few blocks away, had sold the stranger a pair of diamond earrings and a two-carat stud. Now when a drummer comes into his store the autocrat's obsequious manners almost make his visitor's hair stand on end in astonishment.

Young Married Folk.

In this country, many matrimonial engagements are broken off because the families are antagonistic. The young people may love each other, but one future mother-in-law hates the other, and hence there is quarrel, discussion, and separation. "My daughter shall not live with Mrs. So-and-so," says Mrs. This-or-that. They manage this thing better abroad, by deciding that the young couple shall live in their own house, have their own income, and be not dependent on either mother-in-low. While the family relations are kept up with even greater vigor than with us, yet the independence of the parties to be married is respected. In this one respect the etiquette of engagements abroad is far better than ours. It is a sensible outlook, perhaps lacking that wild romance which is supposed to accompany a true-love match, but it has its advantages in the happiness of security. Nothing is left to chance or caprice, and the "too much mother-in-law," which sometimes wrecks the happiness of young people both before and after marriage in America, is carefully guarded against.

SPECIALTIES.

HOW I SUFFERED

Seventeen years from a Skin Disease. Could not walk or dress myself. A mass of disease from head to foot. Cured in eight weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

At the age of three months a rash (which afterwards proved to be eczema or salt rheum) made its appearance on my face. A physician was called. He said teething was the cause; he prescribed some cooling medicine, but the sores spread to my ears and head. Another M. D. was called. He professed to know all about the case, called it "King's Evil," and prescribed gunpowder, brimstone, and lard mixed into a salve; but the disease continued. They could not do anything with it. Another prescribed borax, water and flour; another linseed poultices. None of them did me any good at all, but made me worse. The disease continued unabated; it spread to my arms and legs, till I was laid up entirely, and from continually sitting on the floor on a pillow my limbs contracted so that I lost all control of them, and was utterly helpless. My mother would have to lift me out and into bed. I could get around the house on my hands and feet, but I could not get my clothes on at all, and had to wear a sort of dressing gown. My hair had all matted down or fallen off, and my head, face and ears were one scab, and I had to have a towel on my head all the time in the summer to keep the flies off. My parents consulted a prominent physician and surgeon here in Chicago (the other physicians before mentioned were of Dundas and Hamilton, Canada). He said he could do nothing for me. He wanted to cut the sinews of my legs, so that I could walk; but I would not let him, for if I did get better I would have no control of them.

The disease continued in this manner until I was seventeen years old, and one day in January, 1879, I read an account in the Tribune, of your CUTICURA REMEDIES. It described my case so exactly that I thought, as a last resort, to give them a trial.

When I first applied them I was all raw and bleeding, from scratching myself, but I went asleep almost immediately, something I had not done for years, the effect was so soothing.

In about two weeks I could stand straight, but not walk, I was so weak, but my sores were nearly well. As near as I can judge the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me in about six to eight weeks, and up to this date (i. e. from January, 1879, to January, 1887) I have not been sick in any way, or have had the least signs of the disease reappearing on me.

LOCAL AND PROVINCIAL.

The Common Blunder.

A letter from the city barristers, read to the council on Wednesday evening, bore the date of "January, 2nd, 1888." The informations and police court documents yesterday also bore the date of last year.

Weekly Colonist.

THE WEEKLY COLONIST, the premier publication of the province, is issued this morning in time for the American mails. Price $2 per annum; single copies, 10 cents. For sale at the bookstores and at the office of publication.

Wood for the Locomotives.

A gang of men proceed up the Island railway line this morning for the purpose of cutting cordwood for the use of the locomotives. This has been rendered necessary by the closing down of the Wellington mines.

Another Victoria Boy Abroad.

We see by the Oshawa (Ontario) Vindicator of the 26th ult., that Master Charles Edward Watkins, only 13 years of age, a grandson of Mr. Sheriff McMillan, in a class of 28 successful competitors for entrance into the high school of that town, gained the highest in arithmetic and third place in the class.

The Tramway Co.'s Stock.

The stock book of the Tramway Company was opened at J. D. Warren's office yesterday afternoon and several hundred shares were taken before evening. It is hoped that the stock will all be taken by local parties so that the control of the valuable franchise granted to the promoters by the city may not pass into eastern hands. Subscriptions of from one share upwards are received.

The Vancouver Lumber Co.

The Vancouver Lumber Company, whose fine mill is now in course of erection on Burrard Inlet, near the location of the smelter, received their first boom of logs this morning. The boom was brought down from the company's limits near Port Nerville, some distance up the coast, and consists of about 280,000 feet. It will probably be March before the company are quite ready to start cutting.—World.

Quick Travel.

The steamer Islander on her down trip from Vancouver yesterday, was exactly four hours and thirty minutes from the terminal city wharf to the outer wharf. The outer passage was taken, off Discovery Island light, which would make the total distance travelled eighty miles, or eighteen miles per hour. The gallant vessel cut her way through the water in handsome style, and in the forward cabin and amidships the vibration was scarcely noticeable. It is expected that she will be able to make the same distance, when pushed to her utmost speed, within the four hours.

A Missing Will.

Diligent search has failed to find the will of the late Mr. Arthur Finney, and it is reported that the brother-in-law of the deceased, as being the only relative in Victoria, has taken possession of the estate. Some friends of the deceased Mr. Finney are almost positive that he drew up a will about a year ago, as he consulted them as to its provisions, and that he had it properly signed and witnessed in the presence of a legal gentleman. What disposition he made of the document is, however, unknown, as he never alluded to it after the time above mentioned.

A New Carriage Factory.

Among the numerous brick buildings erected last year was a two-storey carriage factory, at the corner of Broughton and Gordon streets, built by Coughlan & Mason for Mr. F. J. Barnard, and leased for a term of years to Messrs. Dempster, Beek & Co., carriage builders, blacksmiths, etc. This firm will be in a position to perform in the one building all the work pertaining to repairing, blacksmithing and trimming, and are prepared to undertake the building of carriages, wagons, carts, etc. Two such competent and well-known mechanics as Messrs. Dempster and Beek cannot but make a success of this enterprise.

Assaulted by a Maniac.

Three or four days ago a Chinese resident on Fisgard street was committed to the cells on a charge of being a dangerous lunatic. Yesterday morning he became violent and attacked Gaoler Roberts as he was visiting the cell. With the assistance of Officer Lindsay and an unfortunate who had been filed away on a charge of being under the influence, the gaoler finally succeded in forcing the maniac back into the cell, and strapping him down. The Chinaman had eaten nothing and had not uttered a word since the time he was locked up, and is regarded as one of the most dangerous as well as the most treacherous of the Celestial residents of Victoria. His fellow-prisoner, whose only offence was drunkenness, rendered such signal help to the officer when he was assaulted that the superintendent declined to press the charge against him, and he was accordingly liberated.

Marital Infelicity.

Several weeks ago a respectable young tradesman of Seattle arrived in Victoria in search of his wife, who had deserted husband and home and eloped with a dissolute young man of Tacoma to this city. The husband found the unfaithful partner of his joys and sorrows in a Broad street bagnio, and with considerable difficulty persuaded her to return with him to their home. Apparently the woman, who is not yet over 20 years of age, was dead to all sense of decency and honor, however, for yesterday morning she again deserted those whom she should hold most dear, and in company with the same young man who accompanied her on the previous occasion, came to Victoria and became an inmate of another house of acknowledged ill repute. Her husband is now determined to let her taste the full bitterness of her sin, and will make no more efforts to compel her fidelity. The young woman was married at a very early age and is the daughter of respectable and well-to-do parents, who feel very deeply the disgrace which she has brought upon them.

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine.

The January number of this magazine coming out before the holidays, very properly and pleasantly devotes some of its pages to Christmas scenes, stories and poems. Beginning with a beautiful poem by G. A. Davis, entitled "Under the Mistletoe, A.D. 1187," we have discussions of the "Significance of Christmas," "Christmas Customs and Festivities," "Christmas Street Music," and "Christmas at Mount Vernon," a poem by Etta W. Pierce. There is also an article, "From Bethlehem to Calvary," with four full page pictures of actual scenes in the Hold Land from recent photographs, and a very interesting article on "The Legend of the Holy Grail." "The Last of Pines," by H. W. Ballou, is well written and illustrated, and "Darwin" is an interesting sketch of the career of that famous man. "Pompeii," by Marc F. Vallette, takes us back eighteen centuries, and "Only a Heap of Rubbish," by Adelia Beard, is essentially of to-day. The serial story, "Genevieve," is continued, and there are two short stories, besides many short articles, bright poems and beautiful pictures. This number is the first of a new volume, and affords a favorable time to subscribe to the magazine.

The Umatilla Laid Up for Repairs.

The steamship Umatilla has been laid up for repairs to her machinery at San Francisco, and her place on the northern route will be taken by the Mexico, which sails for Victoria this morning.

A New Fish.

The News Advertiser reports that a new fish called a butter flounder, equal in quality to the shad and somewhat similar, has been placed on the market. On Tuesday night a fisherman made a haul of about 500 pounds of this fish, which in future will be numbered among the staple articles in that line. British Columbia is a country of vast resources.

Sir Joseph W. Trutch.

A London despatch says that among the honors distributed to Canadians in the new year list are the following: Chief Justice Allen of New Brunswick to be knighted; Hon. J. W. Trutch, Dominion agent in British Columbia, to be a K. C. M. G. (promoted from third to second-class); and Major-General Oliver, late commandant of the military college at Kingston, to be a C. M. G. The elevation of Hon. Mr. Trutch to be a Knight Companion will entitles him to the prefix of Sir.

A. F. & A. M.

The following officers of Victoria-Columbia Lodge No. 1, A. F. & A. M., were installed last evening by the officers of the Grand Lodge: Geo. S. Russell, W. M.; T. B. Pearson, S. W.; W. J. Quinlan, J. W.; John Teague, Treas.; R. B. Esnouf, Secy.; B. Williams, S. D.; Wm. R. Brown, J. D.; J. C. Cornish, D. of C.; C. D. Mason and F. W. Garland, Stewards; A. Hookway, organist; and W. Tricky, Tyler. After the installation W. Bro. W. W. Northcott, was presented with a magnificent past master's jewel.

Funerals.

The funeral of the late Thomas Thompson will take place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence, Alfred street.

The remains of the late Edward Sehl, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sehl, will be laid away at Ross Bay cemetery this afternoon.

The funeral of the late John Matheson took place yesterday afternoon, many old friends of the deceased being present. Following were the pall-bearers: T. J. Burnes, J. Graham, G. Fairbrother, F. Roundy, J. Rood, W. H. Dempster.

A Spoiled Dinner.

A well-known gentleman who resides not a mile from View street had rather bad luck with his New Year's dinner. It seems that, wishing to enjoy a particularly nice change in the way of diet on that day, he bought a brace of grouse which the poulterer declared to be "the finest he had sold this season," and further volunteered the information that he had sold just such another brace to Col. ———, naming a prominent local official. The gentleman took his game home and indulged himself in bright dreams of the epicurean feast which was in store for him; but to his chagrin he found when he came to "discuss" the birds at the dinner-table that they tasted as though they had been soaked in turpentine. It is needless to say that they were not eaten at the table, and on being offered to the family cat, were respectfully declined; so they were ultimately handed over to a neighbor's dog, who is possessed of a morbid craving for something strange in the way of eatables.

Oddfellows' Re-Union.

At an early hour last evening the large and handsome hall of the "Order of Brotherly Love," was crowded to overflowing by the children of the members, the occasion being the annual Christmas tree entertainment. Shortly after 7 o'clock a series of beautiful magic lantern views was exhibited by Mr. A. J. Langley and fully appreciated by both young and old. Mr. Robert McLellan's wonderful "Punch and Judy" show was next introduced by Mr. Beaumont Boggs, and caused much amusement in the numerous hits got off by Mr. Punch upon the members of the order. After refreshments had been served, Santa Claus made his appearance, and selected a brother with a big voice to distribute the gifts from the tree. These consisted of books, dolls and toys, which had been carefully decked in a most artistic manner upon a giant tree. Every child was made happy by the receipt of a gift, and will look anxiously forward to the next annual Christmas entertainment of the Oddfellows, who must be congratulated upon the success of last evening's reunion.

New Year Editions.

Several of our contemporaries issued very fine new year editions, evidencing much care in the arrangement of the contents and the statistics furnished their readers. The World of Vancouver appeared in eight-page form, with an outline illustration of the steamer Islander, a resume of the year's business and many valuable statistics and articles of interest. The Vancouver News-Advertiser came to hand in 12-page form, replete with statistical information. The Post-Intelligencer of Seattle, was issued in 16-page form, the contents being mainly devoted to the progress of the territory and of Seattle, and the development of its resources. It is a really valuable number. The Oregonian sent out twenty-four pages, the contents of which reviewed the trade of Oregon and the city of Portland during the past year. Many statistics and interesting articles on the resources, manufactures and industries of Oregon make the Oregonian well worth reading. The Inland Sentinel, published at Kamloops, is a most valuable new year number. It came to hand in 12-page form, full of mining news carefully compiled. The various mines on the mainland, their value and prospects for the future are ably written up, reflecting the greatest credit upon the proprietors of the Sentinel.

"At The Victoria To-Night."

This evening Heine, the world's greatest master of the violin, with his talented wife, Miss Heine and Herr Miller, will make their first appearance before a Victoria audience under the patronage of Lieut.-Governor Nelson, Hon. Robert Dunsmuir and the commander and officers of H.M.S. Espiegle and of "C" Battery, R. C. A.

Heine has appeared before the greatest of the world's nobility, in every capital of Europe, and everywhere he has been paid the tribute that is alone accorded to the kings of music. His music is different from that of any of the great artists of the past whose genius he has in many respects inherited. His talent winning early recognition, he received the benefit of a thorough training from such great masters as Tolbecque, Saintor, Sivori, Joachim and Vieuxtemps. Heine is accompanied by his wife, a brilliant pianiste; Miss Heine, a soprano vocalist of wonderful sweetness of voice and an accomplished violinist; and Herr Miller, the rising young Canadian baritone, whose rendition of the "Maple Leaf" is alone worth going miles to hear. Special rates have been arranged for, to enable residents along the line of the Island railway to attend the concerts, and it is to be expected that The Victoria will be filled to the doors, both to-night and to-morrow evening.

FOUND DROWNED.

Little Willie Smith Wanders Away From His Home, and His Body is Found Floating in the Waters of the Arm.

On Wednesday morning the family of Mr. Wm. L. Smith, who resides about three miles out of the city, on the Craigflower road, were thrown into a state of terrible excitement and uneasiness by the fact that Willie, Mr. Smith's ten-year old son, a bright promising little lad, had wandered away from home and could not be found. Every part of the house and grounds was searched, but no trace of the little fellow could be found. The neighbors were next called on, but none of them had seen him. The father was sent for, friends joined in the search, and the entire neighbourhood was scoured for some trace of the absent one, but without avail until between four and five o'clock in the afternoon, when the grief-stricken father saw the lifeless body beneath the water of the arm, just above Point Ellice bridge, and quite near the shore. It is supposed that the little fellow, while playing upon the bank, slipped and fell into the water. The body was sorrowfully borne to the desolate home, where sympathizing friends quickly gathered to comfort as best they could those whom Death had so cruelly robbed. Willie had very many friends, who will miss his happy, sunny smile and cheery laughter; and who will feel with the sorrowing family the terrible force of the blow that has fallen upon them.

A coroner's inquest was held at the residence of Mr. Smith yesterday afternoon, when, after viewing the body and listening to the narration of the circumstances in connection with the sad case, the jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

FUN IN THE FORUM.

Among the staid and respectable spectators at the city council on Wednesday evening, was one who imagined himself to be possessed of a wildly hilarious and yet poetic fancy. Not being properly impressed with the solemnity of the occasion he did his best to keep those around him in good humor—and he succeeded.

In discussing the great question of "Gas v. Electricity," Ald. Coughlan recounted a story of "ye days of olde" when the residents of the Queen City were in the habit of painting a white mark on the edge of their sidewalks so that they might steer by the chalk mark, while rolling home, presumably in the early a.m.

The anecdote was a good one and it roused the poetic frenzy of the spectator, so much so that he exclaimed:

There was no light for sinner or saint,
So they marked the sidewalks with fresh white paint.
From what is heard, and often said,
The moderns do differently—paint 'er red.

After relieving himself of the truism that "there's nothing like lather," to assist Alderman Braden when he advised Alderman Vigelius to leave the shop at home, he proceeded to work in a little advice for the incoming council.

Assuming the air of a judge about to impose a death penalty, he enquired: "In what color should the aldermen of '89 keep their promises to the electors?" No one cared to answer and so he came to his own relief by answering: "In violate," while a groan burst from the listeners and hid itself in the stove as he proceeded to complete the work of destruction by quoting:

Will you vote for me for Johnson street ward,
And help me all you can?
"Of course I will," he promptly replies,
And then "plumps" for the other man.

Lives of aldermen remind us
We can do the same as they—
And departing leave behind us
Debts for other men to pay.

CITY POLICE COURT.

(Before Hon. A. N. Richards, P. M.)

In the police court yesterday morning, Joe Murphy, (no relation to the inimitable Joe, of "Kerry Gow" fame,) was charged with being a vagrant, without visible means of support, and with soliciting alms on the street.

The culprit was asked by his honor to come out of the dock so that the court could get a good look at him, when it was noticed that he had lost one of his legs. He informed the court that he had been a cripple since his eighth birthday, and also that he was a citizen of our neighboring Republic. Evidence was produced proving the charge of begging and also showing that the prisoner, who arrived in the city a few nights ago, was the companion of a number of bad charactrs from over the Sound. As he claimed to be an American citizen the magistrate thought it would be the best for Victoria to have him return to his own people, and he was accordingly discharged with the understanding that he was to leave the city. The appearance of the prisoner was anything but prepossessing, and it is doubtful if the people of the United States would care to acknowledge him as a citizen at any time but on the eve of an election.

The city barristers, on application, were permitted to withdraw the charge against R. B. McMicking of violating the fire limits by-law, it being understood that they wish to frame a new indictment.

On the Verge of Starvation.

"For three months I could not eat a full meal or do a day's work. I bought a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, began using it, and in three days my appetite returned, in a week I felt like a new man. It was wonderful what that one bottle did for me," writes Arthur Allchin, of Huntsville, Muskoka, who suffered from Dyspepsia. tts

THE SABBATH QUESTION.

TO THE EDITOR:—It is refreshing to read the letter of your correspondent, "Freeman," for he writes like a gentleman and a Christian, and does not think it necessary to introduce personal abuse in discussing a question upon which great difference of opinion exists. I will not enter at length upon the discussion at present, but will simply refer to one or two points in which I differ from your correspondent. First, then, I hold with the Christian church at large, that the Ten Commandments are moral and are of eternal obligation; I see no reason for blotting out the fourth and retaining the others. The Sabbath was not given at Mount Sinai, it was only then recalled to remembrance, it dates from Eden, and is therefore no Jewish institution, but intended for the race. But stop, says "Freeman," if you are right about the Sabbath law, why do you not keep it on the Saturday, as that was the day named, and you have no divine warrant for the change. My answer is simply this: Christ taught us in the sermon on the Mount and afterwards how to interpret the ten commandments showing the eternal principles in these laws stretching out above and beyond the letter. Now the principle is surely a seventh portion of time rather than a particular day in seven. "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." So it was not assuming any undue authority when the inspired Apostles changed the day to celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ. And as a matter of fact they made the change and the whole Christian world have accepted the change with a very few exceptions. "Freeman" points out that when I speak of the advantages of a day of rest for man and beast and an opportunity for worship he agrees with me, but he objects to the introduction of law, and thinks every man should be allowed to settle the matter for himself as to whether he will accept of these advantages or not. I answer that if there is to be any difference at all between Sunday and the other days of the week there must be Sunday laws. What would "Freeman" think of the abolishing of all legal holidays, and that instead of a royal proclamation announcing the holiday, there should simply be a recommendation that those who liked should keep it. Why, he knows human nature sufficiently to understand that the holiday would speedily cease to exist, that a few greedy men refusing to give up a day which was theirs by right could prevent the well-disposed from keeping it. If you have no law upon which to found your rest day and worship day, you will soon not have it all. You like to seek rest and pleasure, another man prefers business, and if you can do as you like, so can he, and by and by if he works you will need to do the same to compete with him. Again, as a matter of fact, those nations which have acted on "Freeman's" principles have lost their Sunday. In the United States just now a serious effort is going forward to regain the day of rest and worship they have lost, and those who are leading in the agitation are doing so on worldly rather than religious grounds. I spent two Sundays sometime ago in an American city, where I saw business being carried on as earnestly on Sunday as Saturday. Shops open, factories working, buildings going up, while service was going on in the churches for those who liked to allow their worldly competitors to get ahead of them. No one dreams of arbitrary or unjust legislation, but all that is desired is that the opportunity shall be given to all to observe the day if they wish to do so, and that can only be attained by preventing all unnecessary labor. Again thanking "Freeman" for the lesson he has given the anonymous writers in the newspapers by his courtesy.

A crowd of over fifty Chinamen gathered on Cormorant street yesterday afternoon to watch the steam sawing machine at work. Their expressions of disgust were, no doubt, called forth by the fact that in the machine they saw a formidable business rival.

Pickets are 4 ft. long and any desired distance apart. We also make a capital Chicken Fence of laths. The Fence is made of Pickets woven into Double Strands of Heavy Galvanized "Telegraph" Wire. Each cable will stand a strain of 1500 lbs. After being in use, the Staples may be withdrawn, the Fence rolled up and carried to other points without injury. No two pieces of wood come in contact, no rails or nails are used, and it will last 40 years. It will turn horses, cattle, sheep, pigs and poultry. The Dominion Government has scores of miles of this Fencing along the Intercolonial Railway.
